Granite Paving.

As one of the principal "granite towns" in this country, Concord has reason to be interested in the national campaign now under way to acquaint the people with the pre-eminent merits of granite blocks for paving purposes.

A recent publication of the Granite Paving Block Manufacturers' Association of the United States puts the case thus:

Granite blocks have been used for pavements from time immemorial because granite is the most suitable and durable economical material. It is wear resisting; tough and free from chipping and flaking, and being close grained, it is free from impurity absorption. No artificial or manufactured product can equal this perfection.

Hundreds of years of testing and wear experience, under the traffic of all manner of vehicles, in all kinds of cities and under all conditions of grades and weather, have demonstrated that granite is the only material possessing 100 per cent of enduring value for paving.

This is a recognized and well-known fact, evidenced by the past use of granite blocks almost exclusively for enduring paving. This is a national and international engineering practice. Governments use granite for paving driveways. Street railways use granite for paving tracks. Large corporations use granite for paving factory yard runs and areas. The architect specifies granite for those structures which must stand most wear and give longest life service. Granite is the one enduring rock.

Hence, city and highway engineers now demand an improved granite paving block and an improved method of laying it—something which will give a smooth, durable and sanitary pavement free from objectionable noise, offering the best traction for vehicles and a sure, safe foothold for horses drawing heavy loads and which will be reasonable in first cost and eliminate practically all the burden of maintenance.

This demand has been met by the owners of granite quarries. To-day, after many years of practical experimenting and developing both in methods of manufacture and methods of laying the finished blocks, there is available a specification for improved granite blocks and a definite knowledge of the best methods for laying, which gives practical paving perfection and eliminates the objections offered to the use of old style granite paving.

This closeness to 100 percent efficiency in granite paving may be shown so clearly and so practically by reference to work which has stood the test of almost a score of years of service—that the citizen himself may recognize its perfection with almost as much assurance of the correctness of his decision as the engineer.—Concord, N. H., Monitor.

High-class Milk.

Wayne MacVeagh, lawyer and diplomat, has on the outskirts of Philadelphia an admirable stock farm. One day last summer some poor children were permitted to go over his farm and when their inspection was done to each of them was given a glass of milk.

The milk was excellent. It came in fact, from a $2,000 cow.

"Well, boys, how do you like it?" the farmer said when they had drained their glasses.

"Good! Fine!" said one little fellow.

Then, after a pause he added: "I wish our milkman kept a cow."—Baltimore Sun.

The Young Fool and the Old.

There's no fool like a young fool
When fireworks are concerned—
Behold them all, the victims small,
With hands and faces burned,
Behold the lamed and killed and maimed,
Their needless sufferings!

There's no fool like the old fool
Who gives a child such things.

There's no fool like a young fool
In glorious July

To fire a bomb and lose a thumb
And tear away an eye,

To touch a light to dynamite
And scatter death and noise;

There's no fool like an old fool
Who gives a child such toys.

There's no fool like a young fool
To make the Fourth a crime,

When every nurse and every hearse
Is working overtime,

When East and West and North and South
The lists appalling grow;

There's no fool like an old fool
Who thinks a child should know.

There's no fool like a young fool
Who smells the powder smoke;

But the awful play that mars the day
Has ceased to be a joke.

Yet Satan tempts the old fool
To chuckle 'neath his breath

And put among the heedless young
The instruments of death.

Mr. Averill, who served one year as an assistant to the principal of Fair Haven high school and for two years as the principal, has resigned his position and plans to settle in Massachusetts next fall. Speaking of Mr. Averill's services in the school there a Fair Haven contemporary says: "He is a good teacher and his resignation is a matter for regret by the school board and those in the community who appreciate the right kind of teacher. He has not settled upon his new position but it will probably be in Massachusetts, the state that seems to be the moves for Vermont teachers."

Saturday and Sunday were marked by two of the most violent storms of the season, downpours on both afternoons occurring while the well known sun continued to emanate its rays of cheerfulness and warmth with all of its old-time brilliancy. In each instance the phenomena of sunshine during a heavy rain probably suggested more rain. Yesterday sharp peaks of thunder and vivid lightning accompanied the downpour. In towns nearby, the rain developed into a hailstorm. One man, whose disposition to exaggerate is not too pronounced, showed the hail that fell in North Randolph to the size of apples, although he later admitted that the fruit he had in mind was the thorn apple. Little damage was done to crops that have not had enough of the summer sun to attain anything like maturity, although country roads were washed in numerous places.

Yesterday the Intercity Motorcycle club held another of its series of Sunday runs, the destination being Mount Mansfield. Seven members of the club participated, although only one of their number succeeded in scaling the summit of the mountain. B. A. Reed of Montpelier, who rode an Indian cycle, made the entire distance without dismounting and obtained a photograph of his "bike" while on the peak. The run was organized by O. W. Hills, who rode a Harley-Davidson machine. Among others who joined in the ride were Harley and Hallie Ladou and Mr. Sanborn. The start from this city was made early in the morning, cyclists dining at Stowe and returning to Montpelier and Barre early last evening.

Through the kindness of Mrs. L. J. Bolster, the historical committee of the Barre Woman's club has come into possession of a valuable souvenir, a gold watch chain, which belonged to Dr. J. S. Spaulding, who for nearly 30 years was principal of Barre academy, which was located where our present high school building now stands. This chain bears an inscription, badly worn, yet most of it decipherable—"Present, Fall Term, 1859" which would seem to indicate that the chain was presented to Dr. Spaulding by his pupils at that time. On consulting a catalogue of the school for that year we discover among the enrolled students several names afterwards well known in the country. Among the ministers are Dr. J. Lewis, Rev. Sullivan F. Gale and Rev. P. B. Fisk; from the lawyers are Judge Mason B. Carpenter of Denver, Rufus B. Fowler of Worcester, Mass., and Charles Heath, for many years a prominent member of the Vermont bar; and of military heroes are Col. Albert Clark, Major L. A. Abbott, Col. Lucia and Capt. E. A. Tilden.

Playground Notes.

Under the direction of Contractor N. M. Nelson, several men began work this morning to separate the piping of the playground apparatus at Berlin street, it having been decided to remove the equipment to a better playground site in front of the new North Barre school. The piping was imbedded in large concrete blocks, there being in all 25 blocks to be broken before the apparatus can be sufficiently loosened and taken away. The blocks vary in weight from 200 pounds to one-half ton. Spring freshets and ice have wrought havoc with the playground apparatus, rusting the iron and warping the piping. No such trouble is anticipated at the new site, which is far removed from the river.

For the remainder of the week the instructor will be found at the times given in the following places: Tuesday morning, Lincoln; Tuesday afternoon, Ayers street; Wednesday morning, North Barre; Wednesday afternoon, Lincoln; Thursday morning, Ayers street; Thursday afternoon, North Barre; Friday, Lincoln in the morning and Ayers street in the afternoon; Saturday, North Barre morning and afternoon. Those wishing to try out for the second team should gather at Ayers street and be on the grounds Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock.

After seven innings the game between North Barre and Ayers street Saturday afternoon was called on account of rain. The score at the end of the seventh was: Ayers street 8, North Barre 4. Batteries—O. Gianni c and J. Davidson p for North Barre; D. Lascor c and A. Polli p for Ayers street.

Tuesday morning at the Ayers street park North Barre vs. Ayers street; game called at 9:30. In the afternoon Ayers street will meet Lincoln on the Lincoln grounds; game called at 1:45.

All those who have made the regular team or all still trying for a position will be on hand before the beginning of play. On Thursday of last week Captain Daniel Lascor of the south end team put his men through a stiff course of batting practice. On Friday the team was hard at infield and outfield practice. The result of their work was shown in Saturday afternoon's victory over the north end.

Americo Polli is the man in the box for Ayers street.

A neat triple was pulled off in scrub work this morning by Captain Lascor's men.

One hundred and fifty friends of Miss Margaret O'Connor assembled at Gilbert's hall Friday evening, to remind her of her 20th birthday anniversary. Music was furnished by Carroll's orchestra. One of the delightful features of the social hour was when Miss O'Connor was called to the stage by Mr. Carroll of Barre, who, in behalf of the company, presented her a handsome lavalliere and bracelet, at the same time tendering her the hearty congratulations of those assembled. Miss O'Connor extended to her unexpected guests a most hospitable welcome and thanked them all for the beautiful presents. Another feature of the hour was the serving of refreshments by a number of young ladies, of ice cream and cake, those assisting in the serving being Misses Mildred Miles, Frances McLean, Margaret Murphy, and Helen Boyce. The party broke up at an early hour in the morning, wishing Miss O'Connor many happy returns of the day.
